Panormos to this day remains one of the “hidden” areas of Mykonos thanks to its position on the northern side of the island and the rather unspoilt landscape. Perched on the hills surrounding the beach is a marvelous renovated 4 bedroom Cycladic property set in the most natural area of Mykonos. The location makes the outstanding beaches of Panormos and Agios Sostis reachable within minutes while town remains at a little less than a 15 minute drive away, just enough to have the liberty to decide whether to join the vibrant night life of Mykonos or not.

The delightful infinity pool plays a main role in the villa’s terrace accompanied by comfortable sun beds and stone built summer couches. A series of pergolas were conceived in various areas of the premises, all tastefully decorated and each with its own purpose. An extensive view over Lake Marathi and the sandy beach of Panormos completes the outdoor experience, combining relaxation with a panorama hard to find elsewhere on the island.

This is the perfect example of what a traditional Mykonian property can become in the thoughtful hands of discerning owners who show appreciation from the Cycladic architecture bringing a breath of fresh air to it through charming décor while preserving original features and structure. A great example is the structure of the property itself, where all bedrooms are independent one from the other allowing for privacy in three separate units that include a main house, a pool studio and a guesthouse. The main house has the property’s main living room with views over Panormos beach, the discrete and functional kitchen and the villa’s master bedroom. Also part of the main house yet accessed externally is a guest bedroom with its own small outdoor living area covered by a wooden pergola. The pool studio is slightly detached from the main house, providing intimacy to this guest bedroom just a few steps above the pool terrace. A guesthouse was designed below the main property – accessed through a charming stone path – and is a small dependence with a small outdoor dining area, small living room and a kitchenette in addition to the fourth guest bedroom of the property. All bedrooms are tastefully appointed and feature modern comforts such as en-suite bathrooms and air-conditioning.
