A short drive from the bustling port town of Andratx and nestled into the hilltop overlooking the Gran Follies bay, sits this beautiful property designed by the famous Uruguayan architect Alberto Rubio. The curved, white rooftops of this beautiful house are meant to mirror the wings of white gulls in flight, and the glass walls, polished concrete floor and minimalist furnishings give a light and peaceful atmosphere.

Electric gates with video entrance give way to a covered garage with access to the house, and to the right, stairs down to the main entrance doors. Once in the house, further steps lead down to a dining area for eight with sliding glass doors on to the swimming pool and outdoor seating and lounging areas. Photographic prints and beautiful sculptures adorn the walls and surfaces of this open plan living space. Above, a mezzanine with a curved glass wall overlooking the stunning sea view is the main lounge area, a more formal space to the television lounge on the right of the dining room.

To the left of the central dining space and down four steps sits the well equipped, modern kitchen with a central island. There is an al fresco dining table on the adjoining terrace that seats eight. The kitchen is well equipped and modern, the white lacquer doors and surfaces conceal most appliances giving a clean and bright feel.

On this level are 5 bedrooms, a double and a twin each with en suite shower room, a further double and a small double each with bathroom with tub and shower and a bunk room which shares one of these bathrooms. On the first floor is the Master with Jacuzzi bathtub and shower and an attached children's room with single bed.

The outdoor areas and pool terrace afford plenty of comfortable seating and wonderful sea views making this a very tranquil holiday home.
